

New Poetry from Tanya Tuzeo: “My Brother, the Marine;” “My Brother’s Shoebox;” and “My Brother’s Grenade”

WAR HAS DONE / image by Amalie Flynn

my brother, the Marine

the recruiters come weeks earlier than agreed—arrive in alloy, aluminum with authority, military vehicle blocks our driveway announcing to the neighborhood they’ve come for a boy here who will have to go—though he sits at the top step and cries

i follow them,
strange convoy to Staten Island's hotel where all the boys are corralled—farmed for war, becoming weapons of mass destruction
when before they picked apples at family trips upstate a hotel lobby—last stop before using lasers to blow off golden domes, silence muezzins in the crush of ancient wage and plaster—Hussein's old siberian tiger left thirsty, watches other zoo animals being eaten by the faithful—just like a video game

i clamp onto my brother beg him not to go, we could run away he didn't have to do this—recruiters quickly camouflage me, am dragged outside—my brother lost did not say goodbye
or even look at me.

my brother's shoebox

the room across the hall is inhabited again, home now from another tour like sightseeing from a grand canal where buildings are art and storied sculptures animate street corners—my brother returns a veteran.

i want to remember who this person is,
or at least, find out what war has done.

he leaves with friends to drink—that is still the same, later tonight
he might howl at our parent's window or jump on my bed until the sheets froth, uncaring and rabid.

but i don't wait for him to come home and begin searching the room that is his again.

it is simple to find
where people hide things—a shoebox under his bed that wasn't there all these years furrowed by sand
and almost glowing.

i open to find drugstore prints, rolls of film casually dropped for a high school student to develop—silver halide crystals take the shape of shattered skulls goats strung and slit
a school made of clay blasted in the kiln of munitions
"KILL ZONE" painted across its foundation—each 4×6 emulsion a souvenir of these mad travels, kept to reminisce and admire.

my brother's grenade

my brother's room in our family vacation home has embossed wallpaper, indigo or violet depending on the light that filters through the mountains—and his grenade in the closet.

i saw it looking for extra blankets, thought it was an animal resting in eiderdown kept by my mother in one of her tempers but it didn't move
and so i picked it up.

inhumanity held beneath iron's screaming core—a pleasant weight,
like the egg i threw across the street detonating onto the head of boy who said i kissed him but i didn't, is it like that for my brother?—
fisted mementos of thrill?

seasoned by cedar sachets, neatly quilted metal shimmered as i turned it forbidden gem, his holy relic—i placed it back in the closet and began making dinner, said nothing.

the slender pin preserves this household where our family gathers unknowing a bomb is kept here—my brother roasts a marshmallow until it catches fire, turns black, plunges into mouth.
